AxCrypt

File Security for you and your team

Press release

Stockholm, Sweden - August 23, 2016

Sharing encrypted files all over the world becomes easy with AxCrypt 2, File Security for you and your team.

The Swedish startup AxCrypt AB released AxCrypt 2 on April 29, 2016, making the use of strong encryption and sharing of secured files more simple than any other software before has done. It does this by removing the complexity from the use of strong and proven cryptographic technology, putting the tools of strong encryption into the hands of everyone, not just IT and security experts.

A few weeks after its launch, AxCrypt received many requests from all over the world, asking for other languages in addition to English, French and Swedish. That is why we worked on developing Axcrypt 2 in many languages. Nowadays, AxCrypt is available in English, French, German, Italian, Korean, Spanish, Portuguese, Dutch, Swedish and more to come.

“It has never been as easy to collaborate with encrypted files all around the world. We are still working on developing other languages to allow our users to encrypt and share using their own language” - Zebastian Victorin, Co-founder and CEO.

An innovative key sharing feature has been developed that allows secured files to be shared in the cloud and opened by other AxCrypt users without sharing passwords.

“The key sharing feature is a game changer for teams who need to share encrypted files! We are making this technology available for everyone, not only IT and security experts.” - Svante Seleborg, Co-founder and Lead developer.

The software is free and open source, with a premium subscription available that offers even stronger encryption and more features such as an online password manager. The key sharing feature is only available with AxCrypt 2 Premium. A 30-days trial for the Premium version is given to the user when they download AxCrypt 2 for the first time on our official website www.axcrypt.net.

About AxCrypt

The history of AxCrypt started in 2001 when Svante Seleborg needed to share confidential data over the Internet and failed to find existing data security solutions that were simple and easy to use for everyone. It was then that he developed and released the first version of AxCrypt and shared it with others for free.

In 2014, with over 20 million downloads worldwide, AxCrypt had grown to be one of the world's most popular encryption softwares. Svante then teamed up with Zebastian and founded AxCrypt AB to take AxCrypt to the next level.
